2. Use in sentences the Antonyms of the following words in italicized in the following passage:-

My friend is mostly affable but sometimes very inhospitable and skeptical. She is talkative while talking about politics and insecure regarding religious matters.

(3 marks)

3. Read the passage and answer the questions given in the end :

In recent years, pocket calculators have become almost as commonplace as wristwatches. There is now a tremendous choice of calculators at a great variety of prices.

The following points should be borne in mind when buying a calculator. Firstly, there is the number of things the calculator can do. The most basic type of calculators have simply the four arithmetical functions (additions, subtraction, multiplication and division), with perhaps a few other functions like percentage and square root. Next, there are calculators with a 'memory' which allows you to store information, do more calculations and recall the information when you need it. There are also special purpose calculators for, say scientific, mathematical, statistical or other uses, with the appropriate functions. Some more expensive calculators are programmable ie., there is a choice of complex calculating routines which will be done automatically. Lastly, some calculators can print out the calculations, so that you can check the calculations as they are being done, and also have permanent record of them.

The second important question is how easy the calculator is to use. The display of figures should be clear so that the figures are easily distinguished – also, watch out for the decimal point! In some calculators it is not very easy to see. The display should also be bright, so that it can be read in any light.

The third important point is the power units. Calculators may be mains-operated or battery operated. Mains operated ones are cheaper to run if you use them a lot. Battery operated ones may be run on ordinary batteries, or by special 'long life' batteries or by rechargeable batteries.

- (i) Give a suitable title to the passage.
- (ii) What are the basic functions of a calculator?
- (iii) Why is 'memory' important for calculators?
- (iv) Why are programmable calculators more expensive?
- (v) What are 'display' factors to be borne in mind?
- (vi) How is 'main operated' calculator different from 'battery operated' one?
- (vii) Do you have a calculator? What do you use it for?
- (viii) Do you think calculators are essential in our life?
- (ix) What are the disadvantages of calculators?
- (x) Calculators hinder man's capacity to memorize. Yes or no?

(10 marks)

5. Read the following passage and do as directed:-

I went to a sacred place and what made it special was the vantage point from which the sky, pure and unpolluted could be seen. The absence of artificial stimuli forces us to look inwards and this is the basis of spiritual endeavor, the key to a quiet mind. Every culture has celebrated the night sky and surely we are deprived without it. For astronomers, light pollution is the bane of their profession.

Identify the words that can be paraphrased as follows:

- (a) A high place that provides a good clear view.

- (b) Something that acts as incentive.
- (c) An attempt to do something.
- (d) Lacking essential or necessary things.

(2 marks)

I. 1. Read the following passage and do as directed:-

Any news that occurred in our locality is more newsworthy than an event that occurred elsewhere. The element of proximity plays a major role when catastrophes strike. "Earthquakes kills 300 in Chile : One malayalee missing" is an example of a story that happened miles but is of some concern for us too because of the 'missing Malayalee'. The element of proximity can be used to great advantage by newspapers abroad, especially when they have a good circulation among immigrants.

Choose the correct synonyms from those given:

(a) Event :

(i) Accident

(ii) News

(iii) Happening

(iv) Report

(b) Proximity:

(i) Brevity

(ii) Clarity

(iii) Attractiveness

(iv) Nearness

(c) Catastrophe :

(i) Sudden disaster

(ii) Tragedy

(iii) Accident

(iv) Cruelty

(d) Concern:

(i) Problem

(ii) Advantage

(iii) Anxiety

(iv) Fascination

(e) Immigrant :

(i) Exile

(ii) Settler

(iii) Foreigner

(iv) Tourist

(3 marks)

2. Use in sentences the Antonyms of the following words in italicized in the following passage:-

Mrs. Smith was in her mid-fifties. She had curly, black hair. She is tall, slim and good-looking. She has pale skin. She wore grey trousers and white shirt. Her shoes were black in colour.

(3 marks)

3. Read the passage and do as directed:

The Beach! A beautiful and a better spot one can seldom find on earth. What makes it beautiful? Well, the answer is obvious: the roaring waves, the splintering sea, the soothing breeze, all these features lend their charm, making this blessed spot a unique place. The beauty of it is also evident in the varied hues and the myriad shapes that one finds in the shells lying scattered along the sandy shore.

Identify the words that can be paraphrased as the following :

1. The only one of its kind
2. Rarely
3. Great number of
4. Shades of colour
5. Obvious

(5 marks)

5. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:

Yet another great defect of our civilization is that it does not know what to do with its knowledge. Science, as we have seen, has given us powers fit for the gods, yet we use them like small children. For example, we do not know how to manage our machines. Machines, as I have already explained, were made to be man's servants; yet he has grown so depended on them they are in a fair way to become his masters. Already most men spend most of their lives looking after and waiting upon machines. And the machines are very stern masters. They must be fed with coal, and given petrol to drink and oil to wash with and must be kept at right temperature. And if they do not get their meals when they expect them, they grow sulky and refuse to work, or burst with rage, and blow up, and spread ruin and destruction all round them. So we have to wait up on them very attentively and do all that we can to keep them in a good temper. Already we find it difficult either to work or play without the machines, and a time may come when they will rule us altogether, just as we rule the animals.

- (a) In what way are machines the masters of man?
- (b) Why are machines called 'stern masters'?
- (c) What is the defect of our civilization?
- (d) Why does a professional write a report?

(5 marks)

6. Combine the following sentences using "Though"

II. Read the following passage and answer the questions below:

A tree has three main parts. The roots anchor it in the ground and absorb water and minerals from the soil. The trunk and branches carry sap and lift the leaves into sunlight. The leaves are food factories of the tree.

A tree higher and wider by lengthening its wigs and branches at the tips. At the ends of the twigs, the terminal buds are continually adding new cells. Meanwhile, the branches twigs, and trunk grow thicker.

Most trees have a section called the cambium, which is a layer of cells where growth in diameter occurs. Every year the layer of cambium between the sapwood and the inner bark adds a layer of new cells to the older wood. Each layer forms a ring- and by counting the rings one can tell the age of a tree.

- a) Suggest a suitable title for this passage

VIII. Read the following passage and do as directed:

Outside New York, there were other harbingers of what may be a difficult summer. The mayor called in the National Guard in Chattanooga, Tenn., after a cancelled soul concert touched off five nights of sporadic arson and rioting. A wild racial melee erupted at California's Travis Air Force Base, which had been cited less than a year ago as a model of good racial relations in the service. And in the delta town of Drew, Miss., three young whites who had been drinking were charged with gunning down a 19-year old black girl after her high school graduation, touching off rock tossing protests by black youths and drawing a message of condolence (and help of the FBI in the investigation) from President Nixon.

IX. Read the following passage and do as directed:

The popularity of the guitar is going a long way toward changing the old-fashioned notion that the guitar is for show and not for acquiring the basics of music. Actually, the guitar is as versatile musically as the piano, and it also offers something many instruments don't – portability. The guitar can provide all the basics needed for an excellent start in instrumental music. One of the earliest instruments to grasp (mentally and physically), the guitar can encourage a beginner or a "switcher" by letting him master some simple chords in a few lessons. Once he's actually creating music on the guitar, he'll feel a sense of accomplishment that often carries over to another instrument.

Identify the words that can be paraphrased as the following:

1. Supported by many people.
2. Ability to change easily from one activity to another.
3. Light and small enough to be carried.
4. Three or more musical notes played at the same time.
5. The sense of having achieved something.

(5 marks)

X. (a) Use in sentences the Antonyms of the following words in italicized in the following passage:-

I hated the sugar cane fields. Fat, treeless and hot, they stood for everything I hated about the tropics and the West Indies. It is a brutal plant, tall and grass-like, with rough, razor edged blades. It reminded me of the callous treatment meted out to the ill-fated slaves who toiled in the field

(b) Read the following passage and omit parts of a sentence or phrases using ellipses:

Jo caught a bad cold through neglecting to cover the shorn head enough and Jo had to stay at home. She had to remain in bed still she was better. Jo liked this. Jo subsided on to the sofa. Jo was ready enough as ever to nurse her cold with her favourite books.

(5 marks)

XI. A) Make one sentence from two:

1. Helen took some photographs. Have you seen them?
2. You gave me a pen. I've lost it

3. Sue is wearing a jacket. I like it.
4. I gave you some flowers. Where are they?
5. He told us a story. I didn't believe it.
6. You bought some oranges. How much were they?
7. I was carrying a bag. It was very heavy.
8. You cooked a meal. It was excellent.
9. I am wearing shoes. They aren't very comfortable.
10. We invited some people to dinner. They didn't come.

(10 marks)

Maximum: 80 Marks

Time: Three Hours

I. Read the following passage and do as directed:

Choose the correct synonyms from those given below:

Technology has not totally eliminated the tone of humility set by religion, which reigned unchallenged in the past and which partly survives in the dread of terrible, apocalyptic catastrophes. But it has encouraged many people to talk as though there is a solution to every problem, and success is within everybody's grasp.

II. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:-

People read for a wide variety of reasons, for pleasure, knowledge and display i.e., to impress others. Unless you are studying for a special purpose, you should read only books which interest you. There is absolutely no point in reading just to fashionable. It is a sheer waste of time. Lovers of literature read not for any material gain but for its own sake, for the simple sheer pleasure of it. One has a wide variety of reading material to choose from – novels, poems, short stories, biographies, histories, travelogues, sports, and what not! If you choose according to your taste, interest and aptitude, reading becomes a pleasurable experience. Tastes differ and often one man's meat is another man's poison. While some people derive pleasure and satisfaction from books scientific theories, some others love history books presenting the glories of the past. Stories are favourite with many. Whatever is of your taste, affords you pleasure.

1. How can we make our reading a pleasurable experience?
2. When is reading a sheer waste of time?
3. Why do lovers of literature read books?
4. What are the different reasons for reading?
5. Give a suitable title to the passage.

III. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:-

Teaching at the school level was envisaged to teach all the four skills in order to help the pupils achieve a good command over the language. But in actual practice only two skills were taught, reading and writing. Very little or no attempt was made to encourage listening and speaking in the school because the schools were ill-equipped to undertake the other two skills as speaking needed teachers who were fluent in English and who could become models for the learners. Since getting such teachers was rather impossible, teaching suffered seriously. Moreover, a structural syllabus aimed to teach language structure and isolated pieces without relating them to functions and meanings they convey. With the development of national/functional approach, as advocated by Wilkins and his colleagues, teaching of English has undergone a radical change. Modern approaches to language teaching concentrate more on function and meanings that the language is used to convey than how grammatical structures are formed. The result has been a shift from a purely grammatical syllabus to a communicative one.

Answer the questions below:-

1. How has the teaching undergone a radical change?
2. What was envisaged at the school level teaching?
3. How are the modern approaches to language teaching different from the old?
4. How were the schools ill equipped to teach speaking skills?
5. Why did the pupils fail to achieve a good command over the language?
